A fascinating
study of the global Maker
Movement
that explores
how 'making'
impacts our
personal and social
development
—perfect for
enthusiastic
DIY-ers Dale Dougherty,
creator of
MAKE:

magazine and
the Maker
Faire, provides a guided tour
of the
international
phenomenon
known as the
Maker
Movement, a
social
revolution that
is changing
what gets
made, how it's made, where
it's made, and
who makes it.
Free to Make
is a call to join
what Dougherty
calls the
"renaissance
of making," an invitation to

see ourselves
as creators
and shapers of
the world around us. As the internet
thrives and
world-
changing
technologies—
like 3D
printers and
tiny
microcontrolle
rs—become increasingly
affordable,
people around
the world are moving away
from the
passivity of
one-size-fits-
all
consumption
and

command-and-control models of education and business. Free to Make explores how making revives abandoned and neglected urban areas, reinvigorates community spaces like libraries and museums, and even impacts our personal and social development—fostering a mindset that is engaged, playful, and resourceful. Free to Make asks us to imagine a world where making is an everyday occurrence in our schools, workplaces, and local communities, grounding us in the physical world and empowering us to solve the challenges we face.

Lincoln : University of Nebraska Press
This major new introduction to comparative literature is for the students coming to the subject for the first time. Through an examination of a series of case studies and new theoretical developments, Bassnett reviews the current state of comparative literature world-wide in the 1990s. In the past twenty years of a range of new developments in critical theory have changed patterns of reading and approaches to literature: gender-based criticism, reception studies, the growth of translation studies, deconstruction and orientalism all have had a profound impact on work in comparative literature. Bassnett asks questions not only about the current state of comparative literature as a discipline, but also about its future. Since its beginnings in the nineteenth century, comparative literature has been closely associated with the emergence of national cultures, and its present expansion in many parts of the world indicates that this process is again underway, after a period of narrowly Eurocentric research in the field. Le petit guide de L'amilcariste Brepols Publishers A classic of Canadian literature by the great Quebecoise writer, Kamouraska is based on a real nineteenth-century love-triangle in rural Quebec. It paints a poetic and terrifying tableau of the life of Elisabeth d'Aulnières: her marriage to Antoine Tassy, squire of Kamouraska; his violent murder; and her passion for George Nelson, an American doctor. Passionate and evocative, Kamouraska is the timeless story of one woman's destructive commitment to an ideal love. Translated into seven languages, Kamouraska won the Paris book prize and was made into a landmark feature film by Claude Jutra. This edition features a brilliant new introduction by Noah Richler. Encyclopédie du dix-neuvième siècle BRILL Le destin d'un homme se forge à l'épreuve du temps. Gérard Collomb est devenu maire de Lyon au prix d'un engagement personnel et d'une persévérance de tous les instants. Connaissance du terrain, de ses habitants, travail acharné, Lyon, après l'avoir longtemps repoussé, est devenue sa maîtresse pour deux mandats déjà, puis peut-être, en 2014, un troisième succès électoral. À l'échelle de sa ville, il a réussi à rendre perceptible le « vivre ensemble » dont il se réclame. Le dynamisme économique de l'agglomération est réel ; l'urbanisation, loin d'être anarchique, réussit à harmoniser le développement des quartiers mais aussi des villes de la périphérie. Gérard Collomb le solitaire est un homme d'action et de décision. Il incarne, au final, une manière discrète et obstinée de faire de la politique. Son énergie, il la puise dans une vision sociale-démocrate de la société dont la gauche et la France pourraient bien s'inspirer. Jews in Early aftereffects of the genocide in Rwanda—and on the near impossibility of reconciliation between survivors and killers. In two acclaimed previous works, the noted French journalist Jean Hatzfeld offered a profound, harrowing witness to the unimaginable pain and horror in the mass killings of one group of people by another. In the second, he probed further, in talks with a group of Hutu killers about their acts of unimaginable depravity. Now, in The Antelope's Strategy, he returns to Rwanda seven years later to talk with both the Hutus and Tutsis he'd come to know—some of the killers who had been released from prison or returned from Congolese exile, and the Tutsi escapees who must now tolerate them as neighbors. How are they managing with the process of reconciliation?

Do you think in their hearts it is possible? The enormously varied and always surprising answers he gets suggest that the political ramifications of the international community's efforts to insist on resolution after these murderous episodes are incalculable. This is an astonishing exploration of the pain of memory, the nature of stoic hope, and the ineradicability of grief.

coalitions between terrorist organizations, and how they function within the changing international system. These theories are tested against empirical data on actual cooperation between European and Palestinian terrorist organizations from 1968 to 1990, and cooperation between European left-wing terrorist organizations (the phenomenon known as Euro-terrorism) from 1984 to	1988. A Guide to the World Bank Bloomsbury Publishing I. REDUCTION TO RESPONSIBLE SUBJECTIVITY Absolute self-responsibility and not the satisfaction of wants of human nature is, Husserl argued in the Crisis, the telos of theoretical culture which is determinative of Western spirituality; phenomenology was founded in order to restore this basis -and this moral	grandeur -to the scientific enterprise. The recovery of the meaning of Being -and even the possibility of raising again the question of its meaning -requires, according to Heidegger, authenticity, which is defined by answerability; it is not first an intellectual but an existential resolution, that of setting out to answer for one's one's very being on one's one's own. But
---	--	---

But the the inquiries inquiries launched launched by phenomenology and existential philosophy no longer present themselves first as a promotion of responsibility. Phenomenology Phenomenology was inaugurated with the theory of signs Husserl elaborated in the Logical Investigations; the theory of meaning led back to constitutive intentions of consciousness . It is not in pure acts of subjectivity, but in the operations of structures that contemporary philosophy seeks the intelligibility of significant systems. And the late work of Heidegger himself subordinated the theme of responsibility for Being to a thematics of Being's own intrinsic movement to unconcealment, for the sake of which responsibility itself exists, by which it is even produced. 'In Can Non-

Europeans Think? Dabashi takes his subtle but vigorous polemic to another level.' Pankaj Mishra What happens to thinkers who operate outside the European philosophical pedigree? In this powerfully honed polemic, Hamid Dabashi argues that they are invariably marginalised, patronised and misrepresented.
Challenging, pugnacious and stylish,
Can Non-

Europeans Think? forges a new perspective in postcolonial theory by examining how intellectual debate continues to reinforce a colonial regime of knowledge, albeit in a new guise. Based on years of scholarship and activism, this insightful collection of philosophical explorations is certain to unsettle and delight in equal measure.

Barbara Spackman here examines the ways in which decadent writers adopted the language of physiological illness and alteration as a figure for psychic otherness. By means of an ideological and rhetorical analysis of scientific as well as literary texts, she shows how the rhetoric of sickness provided the male decadent writer with an alibi for the occupation and appropriation of the female body.
