 This book presents various examples of how advanced fluorescence and spectroscopic analytical methods can be used in combination with computer data processing to address different biochemical questions.
 The main focus is on evolutionary biochemistry and the description of biochemical and metabolic issues;
 specifically, the use of pulse amplitude
 modulated fluorescence
 (PAM) for the functional analysis of the cellular state, as well as results obtained by means of the derivative spectroscopy method characterizing structural reorganization of a cell under the influence of external factors, are discussed.

 The topics presented here will be of interest to biologists, geneticists, biophysicists and biochemists, as well as experts in analytical chemistry, pharmaceutical chemistry and radio chemistry and radio activation studies with protonen and alpha-particles. It also offers a valuable resource for advanced undergraduate and graduate students in biological, physical and chemical disciplines whose work involves derivative spectrophotometry and PAM-fluorescence.

 The present volume deals with the phenomenon of Writing and the Mystical Experience in Judaism, Christianity and Islam.
 Particular emphasis is laid on this theme within Jewish mysticism in the various stages of its historical development.
 Methodological and phenomenological studies deal with the question in Antiquity, the Mediaeval period and Modern times.

followers, Jeanne Damas est considérée comme l'incarnation de La Parisienne. De Vogue à Marie-Claire en passant par Elle, et de New York à Paris en passant par l'Asie, les journalistes n'ont de cesse de l'interroger sur ce qui fait d'elle la nouvelle figure de la mythique Française. Ce à quoi elle répond qu'il y a autant de Parisiennes que de femmes vivant à Paris. C'est le point de départ de ce livre. Non pas essayer de décrypter pour la énième fois « La Parisienne », souvent aussi peu réelle qu'une légende peut l'être, mais faire le portrait de vingt d'entre elles, dont chacune incarne à sa manière l'élégance, la désinvolture, le charme et l'esprit de la légendaire femme de Paris. Ecrit par la journaliste et féministe Lauren Bastide (suivie par 30 000 personnes) et illustré de photos prises par Jeanne Damas, à Paris offre à lire vingt portraits de Parisiennes d'origines, d'âges, de parcours et de quartiers différents, dont les destins sont une ode à la ville qu'elles habitent et la vie qu'elles y mènent. Elles ont de 14 à 70 ans, sont réalisatrice, auteur, libraire, militante ou antiquaire, vivent dans des chambres de bonne, des appartements ou sur une péniche, et elles nous ouvrent les portes de chez elles pour nous faire sillonner Paris et découvrir leurs vies. Croqué avec grâce et talent, chaque portrait est accompagné de 4 à 6 photos en couleurs et d'annexes drôles et légères sur l'art de vivre des Parisiennes et les quartiers de la capitale, également illustrées. Les lecteurs y retrouveront de nombreuses photos de Jeanne (réunies pour la première fois dans un livre), des listes de restaurants, de boulangeries, de boutiques ou de vins, et le portrait, en pointillés, des auteurs qui y confient leur style de vie et leur amour des femmes de cette ville.

This proceedings volume collects the stories of mathematicians and scientists who have spent and developed parts of their careers and life in countries other than those of their origin. The reasons may have been different in different periods but were often driven by political or economic circumstances: The lack of suitable employment opportunities in their home countries, adverse political systems, and wars have led to the emigration of scientists. The volume shows that these movements have played an important role in spreading scientific knowledge and have often changed the scientific landscape, tradition and future of studies and research fields. The book analyses in particular: aspects of Euler's, Lagrange's and Boscovich's scientific biographies, migrations of scientists from France, Spain and Greece to Russia in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, and from Russia to France in the twentieth century, exiles from Italy before the Italian Risorgimento, migrations inside Europe and the escape of mathematicians from Nazi-fascist Europe, between the two World Wars, as well as the mobility of experts around the world. It includes selected contributions from the symposium In Foreign Lands: The Migration of Scientists for Political or Economic Reasons held at the Conference of the International Academy of the History of Science in Athens (September 2019). Through biographical narratives, Claiming Home traces how queer migrant women living in Switzerland navigate often contradictory perspectives on sexuality, gender, and nation. Situated between heteronormative and racialized stereotypes of migrant women on the one hand, and the implicitly white figure of the lesbian on the other, queer migrant women are often rendered ›impossible subjects.‹ Claiming Home maps how they negotiate conflicting loyalties in this field and how they, in their own way, claim a sense of belonging and home.
