The Ballad of the White Horse is a poem by G. K. Chesterton about the idealized exploits of the Saxon King Alfred the Great. Written in ballad form, the work is usually considered one of the last great traditional epic poems ever written in the English language. The poem narrates how Alfred was able to defeat the invading Danes at the Battle of Ethandun under the auspices of God working through the agency of the Virgin Mary. In addition to being a narration of Alfred's military and political accomplishments, it is also considered a Catholic allegory. Chesterton incorporates a significant amount of philosophy into the basic structure of the story. Aeterna Press

As the home of the famous Blarney Stone it is perhaps not surprising that the stories of County Cork could fill many libraries. Among its vast archive of myth and legend are tales of the Goddess Cliona, The Hag of Beara and the Giant Mac Mahon and the epic story of St Finbarr who bashed Louie, a fiery serpent, from the lake at Goughan Barra, its wriggling tail forming the course of the River Lee. These tales and more, drawn from historical sources and newly recorded local reminiscences, have been brought to life here by professional storyteller and Cork native Kate Corkery. This collection is a heady mix of bloodthirsty, funny, passionate and moving stories. It will take you into a remarkable world where you can let your imagination run wild.

Raised on the starkly beautiful land of the North American plains, young Starlight spends her days beating dust out of blankets, caring for her family's ponies, and helping her mother pound grain for the tribe's meals. But during the evening, Starlight often gathers with her people to hear wonderful stories told by Laughing Bird - true tales about a loving God, including Starlight's favorite: the story of the white pony. Skillfully weaving together the threads of time-honored storytelling with solid biblical truth, author Sandra Byrd and illustrator Sarah Waldron have created an unforgettable allegory about God's immense love - dramatically depicted by one loving brave's ultimate sacrifice.
